Institutional Investors remain commited to sustainable investments - BNP Paribas ESG survey 2025

BNP Paribas' ESG Survey 2025 gathered the views of 420 asset owners, asset managers and private capital on their attitudes and practices relating to ESG and sustainable investing in 29 locations worldwide.

The survey finds institutional investors are embracing and applying the different aspects of sustainable investing, with respondents in Asia-Pacific and EMEA regions being particularly active, helping to shape standards and financial eco-systems. This year's redition delves into the characteristics and behaviours that distinguish the leaders when it comes to using ESG and sustainable investing as well as laying out the lessons other investors can learn from their progress and achievements.
