COVID-19: Swiss Government Loan Scheme

The Swiss Federal Council has taken measures to help companies overcome liquidity shortage due to the COVID-19 crisis. In a short time and in close cooperation with the banking industry, a bridging loan scheme to support companies was introduced by the Swiss authorities on 26 March 2020. Loans of up to CHF 500'000 are interest free while firms will pay 0.5% on larger loans of up to CHF 20 million. Two weeks later, the government increased its emergency funding from CHF 10 billion to CHF 42 billion.

The Emergency Ordinance on the granting of credits with joint and several federal guarantees adopted by the Swiss Federal Council on 25 March provides businesses affected by the crisis with guaranteed bridging credit facilities of up to 10% of their turnover, or a maximum of CHF 20 million. The granting of a credit is usually completed within a few hours.

FINMA Urges Dividend Halt

FINMA wants the banks to hold on to cash reserves both as an enhanced buffer against possible losses and to have a greater stock of loans to issue to businesses struggling to keep floating during the coronavirus-enforced shut down. One day after the Swiss government announced its assistance programme, the FINMA increased pressure on banks and insurers to reconsider their dividend proposals for 2019. In this context, UBS, Credit Suisse, Bank Julius Bär, EFG International took the decision to postpone half of their planned dividend distributions for 2019 to the fourth quarter of 2020.

Swiss Withholding Tax Reform

In early April the Federal Council initiated the consultation on amendments to the Withholding Tax Act. The Federal Council intends to strengthen the Swiss capital market by exempting from the withholding tax domestic legal entities and foreign investors. The tax shall be levied through the paying agent rather than the issuer withholding. It shall also become more inclusive, thus applying to foreign and Swiss collective investment schemes. Banks welcome the initiative but wish to avoid excessively complex solutions as they might weaken attractiveness of the Swiss market.

FINMA: Annual Report 2019

In 2019, FINMA focused its supervision on how firms are coping with the risks arising from low or negative interest, specifically in the real estate market. Also, the FINMA was in close contact with the industry with regard to the risks relating to cyber attacks, Brexit and the transition from LIBOR to risk-free reference rates. Ten years after the financial crisis, the FINMA confirms that the emergency plans for the systemically relevant functions of the two major Swiss banks are effective. Finally, the FINMA elaborates on how the topics of sustainability and risks posed by climate change should be dealt with under supervisory law.

SARON

Since the end of LIBOR is in sight, the SARON (Swiss Average Rate OverNight) is the proposed replacement standard, as recommended by the Swiss National Working Group on Swiss Franc Reference Rates. SIX now announced the launch of SARON compounding indices for 1-, 3- and 6-month time periods. This will help align market participants and will simplify internal processes. Libra Association seeking for FINMA Licence

The Libra Association, an independent group organised by Facebook to manage the Libra stablecoin project, has applied for a FINMA license as payment system in April 2020.

The Libra Association released a new version of its whitepaper with several changes aimed at addressing regulatory concerns. The original plan for the Libra stablecoin was to be backed by a mix of currencies and government debt. However, reacting to concerns raised by regulators on the potential for a multi-currency Libra Coin to interfere with monetary sovereignty and policy, Libra is planning to offer stablecoins backed by single currencies.
